The Antigonish Action Committee on Community Violence (AACCV)

Presents a
One Day Workshop:

“Community Action on Violence Involving Youth”

November 1, 1996
10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Bloomfield Centre, St. Francis Xavier
University, Antigonish, Nova Scotia

AACCV Mission:

To create awareness through the development of initiatives towards the prevention of violence against youth and to deal with social violence by working with the community, the school system, St. Francis Xavier University, and any organization or person having a vested interest in our concern with community violence involving youth.

Our Goal:

To provide a one day workshop to increase the awareness of violence involving youth and provide information to assist groups and individuals on how to address youth violence in their community.

Objectives of This Workshop:

- Persons and groups attending will gain information to deal with violence involving youth in their own situation or community.
- Participants will become aware of support systems available in their community.
- Participants will learn strategies to address various violent situations involving youth.
- At the completion of the workshop, there will be an increase in the linking and partnerships that are involved in addressing youth violence issues.
